Jane Swayne of the award-winning Gilbert & Swayne runs very popular chocolate making courses.

Jane set up her company in 2013 and makes her delicious chocolates from a converted barn in Baltonsborough. This is where she also runs her chocolate making courses which are small and informal with a maximum of four students.

The day begins with chocolate tasting, Jane testing her students' tastebuds with a selection of fair trade and single origin organic chocolate. The course is based around making moulded chocolates, either dark or milk, and students learn the disciplines of how to temper chocolate to line the moulds, how to make various ganaches for the fillings and different decoration techniques.

Jane is known for her innovative fillings, using herbs from her garden where possible. Everyone went home with their chocolates, consisting of mouth watering flavours including: coffee and calvados; blackcurrant, mint and cassis; lemon and basil; salted almond and thyme. We left armed with recipes as, best of all, everything done on the course can be replicated at home with just an ice cube tray, a microwave and a thermometer!

Cost: £125 including lunch and a minimum of 70 chocolates to take home.

Master baker Robert Burns set up his bakery, Burns the Bread, in Glastonbury in 1983. He has now opened shops in Street, Wells, Castle Cary and, most recently, in Somerton.

Robert's School of Baking takes place in a modern unit in Glastonbury. There are two options available: a Bread & Bun Day and a Bread & Pastry Day. Both take a maximum of six students to ensure everyone receives individual tuition.

The Bread & Pastry Day gives students the opportunity to bake a loaf of seeded bread and learn the art of rough pastry for pasties, sweet pastry for fruit pies and puff pastry for Eccles cakes - all of which are taken home at the end of the day, along with the recipe sheets.

Robert demonstrates every step, making it look easy, but that's years of practice for you. He is patient and attentive, walking around the room to ensure everyone's mix is the right consistency and imparting his knowledge. The joy of this class is that by its very nature (lots of kneading and proving) there is plenty of opportunity for chatting around the table making it a fun and informal, as well as informative, day out.

Cost: £125 including lunch and all your products baked on the course.
